"A League of Extraordinary Women"

Honoring the remarkable women working in the field of FASD past and present

The 2006 Northwest Regional FASD Conference – Building Bridges to Success

Conference Goals:

- (1) Facilitate understanding of current research in the field of Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders.
- (2) Introduce families and professionals caring for and working with individuals with alcohol related disabilities to a variety of innovative strategies and interventions

Thursday Keynote Speaker: Sterling Clarren, MD

People With FASD Do Grow Up: The Canadian Approach to Holistic Investigation & Knowledge, Translation Into Practice

The governments of the 4 western provinces and 3 northern territories of Canada came together in 1998 and formed what is now known as the Canada Northwest FASD Partnership to advance the treatment and prevention of FASD. In 2003, the Ministers appointed to the partnership formed the Canada Northwest FASD Research Network. This network has identified over 170 FASD specific projects in western and northern Canada doing work in prevention, surveillance, diagnostics and interventions. This volume of interest provides the Network for an enormous opportunity to bring these researchers and communities together and learn from their common experiences and direct future inquiries. The work of the Network to date will be discussed in this address..

Dr. Sterling Clarren is the CEO and Scientific Director of the newly created Canada Northwest FASD Research Network and a Clinical Professor of Pediatrics within the Division of Developmental Pediatrics and the Child Development and Rehabilitation Program at the University Of British Columbia Faculty Of Medicine.

Thursday Plenary Speaker: Julie Gelo

Many Doors, No Master Key

A visual and interactive hands-on demonstration illustrating the number and variety of service providers and agencies involved in the care of one individual with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome. In addition this dynamic presentation demonstrates the impact on individuals with FASD, their families/caregivers, and their service providers.

Julie Gelo is the legal mother of 13 children ranging in age from 7 to 39. Eight of Julie's children have been diagnosed with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome or related conditions, including all seven who live at home. Julie has been the Family Advocate for the Washington State Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Diagnostic and Prevention Network core team at the University of Washington for ten years. She is a foster parent co-trainer with the Resource Family Training Institute through the Department of Social and Health Services. Julie is the co-founder and Executive Director for the Washington State affiliate to the National Organization on Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (NOFAS Washington State).

Friday Keynote Speaker: Susan Astley PhD.

FASD: From Discover to Prevention in Washington State

Washington State has engaged in FASD diagnosis and prevention for over 30 years. Following a classic model of FASD public health education, screening, diagnosis, and intervention, Washington State has achieved significant reductions in maternal drinking during pregnancy and significant reductions in the prevalence of FAS. Development of evidence-based tools and methodology to guide the diagnostic and intervention programs were vital to the success of Washington State's efforts. Highlights of the state's 30-year history of FASD diagnostic and prevention efforts will be presented with emphasis on what worked, why, and how some of the latest discoveries in the field (e.g. MRI/S, choline-supplementation, etc.) may help further advance FASD diagnosis and intervention.

Susan Astley, Ph.D. is a Professor of Epidemiology at the University of Washington in Seattle, Washington and is the Director of the Washington State FAS Diagnostic and Prevention Network. Dr. Astley's current work includes the development of the FASD 4-Digit diagnostic code and FAS Facial Photographic Analysis Software; establishment of the Washington State FAS Diagnostic and Prevention Network of clinics and Foster Care FAS Screening Program, establishment of the FAS DPN multidisciplinary clinical training program and online training course, and publication of a lifetime sociodemographic profile of 80 birth mothers of children with FAS. She is currently conducting research on the FASD diagnostic utility of MRI, MR-spectroscopy and functional MRI. Dr. Astley's most recent publication documents Washington State's success in preventing FAS through reduction of maternal alcohol use during pregnancy.

Friday Plenary Speakers: Kee Warner and Whitecrow camp leaders James Charron, Ken Kissinger, Lance deBree, Katie Charlie, Alexis Harry, Kirk Lutke, Kellie Zorn

The Whitecrow Team at Work.

Whitecrow camp leaders who have FASD form the largest part of the Whitecrow camp staff. When people hear us speak at a morning workshop partway through a camp session it is often the first time many parents and professionals realize that some of us have FASD. Seeing us as competent contributors brings a new sense of hope and possibilities to children and adults alike. This presentation will describe our work environment, our values, our "corporate culture," and our sense of being respected and valued members of our communities.

Kee Warner and Whitecrow camp leaders James Charron, Ken Kissinger, Lance deBree, Katie Charlie, Alexis Harry, Kirk Lutke and Kellie Zorn, come from various backgrounds, aboriginal and non-aboriginal, urban and rural. Some have had extreme life experience and some more sheltered lives. They have birth, adoptive, and foster families. They have, in common, an understanding of what it is like to have FASD, to live with someone who has FASD, and to interact with social systems whose understanding regarding FASD ranges from none to lots. Most of them are in their 20's or 30's and have other work experience besides Whitecrow.

Complete biographies for all of the speakers as well as detailed descriptions of the Keynotes, Plenary Sessions and Breakout Sessions are available on our website at <http://www.nofaswa.org>
